DETAILED ACTION

Priority

Receipt is acknowledged of papers submitted under 35 U.S.C. 119(a)-(d), which papers have been placed of record in the file.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

1. Claim 8 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being fully anticipated by Honsinger (US 4476408).

Honsinger discloses a an electric motor with a stator (12) comprising a plurality of windings (inherently) and a rotor (16) accommodating space with a particularly ciruclar cross section (figs 2-4), wherein a rotor is accommodated to be rotatable in the rotor accommodating space.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1, 4, 7 and 9 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Kikuchi (US PgPub 20030071533) in view of Miyashita et al (US 6,486,581).

Kikuchi discloses a rotor (figs 1-4) having conductor rods (7) and magnets (8) so that magnetic fields generated along the axes of the core. Kikuchi substantially discloses the claimed invention, except for the limitations of the diameter of the rotor is larger along the magnet axis than along the neutral axis, particularly shape of a rotor is an ellipse.

Miyashita, however, teaches a rotor having a diameter of the rotor is larger along the magnet axis than along the neutral axis, particularly shape of a rotor is an ellipse. Miyashita discloses that the rotor's ellipse shape would provide a gap between the rotor and the stator so that the gap configuration permits a distribution of density of a magnetic flux from the permanent magnets in the gap to approach a sinusoidal wave irrespective of a direction of rotation of the motor, to thereby restrain cogging torque.

Thus, it would have been obvious to one skilled in the art at the time the invention was made to modify the shape of the rotor so that the diameter of the rotor is larger along the magnet axis than along the neutral axis, particularly shape of a rotor is an ellipse, as taught by Miyashita. Doing so would restrain cogging torque.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 2-3, 5-6 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.
